Arcadia Assembly

I will send a few items so that you may know there are a few of as left here yet. Most of us are hunting cool spots and fighting lies: some few are hunting huckle berries and fishing. That is about all the work going on at present.

Mr. Stilts of St. Louis, and others, are putting up a building near Champion Spring, about six miles west of here, in Reynolds county, for a club house and summer resort, which they need in their business, as some ten or twelve of them have been coming down here every summer for the past four years, fishing and camping out in tents for one and two

James Myers' two boys and Fred C. Kitchell are home from the Flat River mines, where they have been working for quite a while at $2 per day, eight hours work. They will return to their work soon. The fast mail or some fast freght going south Sunday morning killed a hundred dollar cow for Andrew Lewis; also a fifty dollar steer, owner unknown yet. They were killed at the crossing in the west part of Annapolis.

The Annapolis Bulletin wants to nform the public that Jeff Davis of Arkansas will address the peoole at Arcadia, Mo., on the 18th of August, and he has been requested speak on campaigning in Arcansas. He has also accepted an invitation to deliver an address under the auspices of the M. C. Cory Chapter United Daughters of the Confedercy, at Jackson, Tenn., July 11, 1906. During the first eighteen days of June only a few light showers fell here. Since that time we have been blessed by an abundant rainfall, and crops of all kinds are growing well. Meadows, though generally weedy, will yield an abundant quantity of hay. Veget-ables, too, are thriving and pastures and the stock range are good.

Arthur Sloan, of near Caledonia, and Frank Bays, of Tolu, were here on business.

The Sligo Furnace Company has shut down the saw mill. It is said it will not be operated any more until it is removed to another site. A steam drill is now at work at the iron ore bank, about five miles southeast of this place.

Mrs. J. L. Laramore and son,
Edgar, and Chas. Nasser, of near Courtois, and W. N. Short and family, of near Goodland, visited friends and relatives here recently.

THE ARCADIAN CREED.

THE ARCADIAN CREED.

BY JOHN BURRO J.A.

I am bound to praise the simple life, because I have lived it and found it good. When I depart from it evil results follow. Hove a small house, plain ciothes, simple living. Many persons know the luxury of a skin bath—a plunge in the pool or the wave unhampered by ciothing. That is the simple life—direct and immediate contact with things, life with the talse wrappings torn away—the fine house, the fine equipage, the expensive habits, all cut off. How free one feels, how good the elements taste, how close one gets to them, how they fit one's body and one's soul! To see the fire that warins you, or better yet, to cut the wood that feeds the fire that warms you; to see the spring where the water bubbles up that slakes your thirst, and to dip your pail into it; to see the beams that are the stay of your four walls, and the timbers that uphold the roof that shelters you; to be in direct and personal contact with the sources of your material life; to want no extras, no shields; to find the universal elements enough; to the did a quest of wild berries more satisfying than a gift of tropical fruit; to be thefilled by the stars at night; to be elated over a bird's nest, or over a wild flower in spring—these are some of the rewards of the simple life.

AIMS OF THE ARCADIA.

The Arcadia Assembly is devoted to the love of country life. Its Golden Text was written many years ago by Walt Whitman, thus: "Now I see the secret of the making of the best persons: It is to grow in the open air and to eat and sleep with the earth."

The chief purpose of "The Arcountry or small town.

The vicinity of every big city should have its "Arcadia." The one organized in Arcadia Valley is intended primarily for St. Louis-ans, though it is hoped that the excellent program prepared will at-tract many persons from the various little cities and towns in Southeast Missouri, who are in easy reach. St. Louis, more than any few weeks during the hot season, for St. Louis is a city practically

SUNDAY SERVICES.

The Assembly includes two Sundays. On each of these Sundays a distinguished divine will be present, preaching an appropriate sermon in the big tent.

TENTS FOR FAMILIES.

In the groves, sheltered by shade trees, the living tents will be plac-ed. If you want to enjoy real life, live in a tent for a week or two. Your doctor will tell you that it will do you good. If he doesn't, get another doctor-or dismiss doctors altogether and live out-

LOCATION OF ARCADIA VALLEY. The center of Arcadia Valley is 88 miles south of St. Louis. The altitude is 800 feet above St. Louis. The surrounding mountains rise 600 feet higher. The valley is Missouri's beauty spot. There are three pretty towns, all in a row-Arcadia, Ironton and Pilot Knob. There is no malaria in this high altitude. The nights are always cool. The main line of the Iron Mountain Railroad bisects the valley. A special railroad rate of one and one-third fare for the round-trip has been arranged for the Arcadia

SPECIAL DAYS.

GENERAL GRANT DAY.—Saturday, August 25, will be "General Grant Day," the exercises to be held at the "Grant Oak." It is proposed to unveil a tablet on the side of this tree, dedicating the old oak to American history. Dis-tinguished orators will be present. A special invitation has been sent to Gen. Frederick D. Grant, son of the great civil war soldier. Grand Army Posts, Women's Relief Corps, United Confederate Veterans, Sons of Veterans, the Missouri Historical Society and other bodies will take part. This event will attract national attention to Arcadia Valley and the historic
